

LOUISE GLAUM IS AT THE GREGG

Popular Star Appears in 'Love or Justice,' Strong Ince Triangle Play.

A genuine screen play is "Love or Justice," and a strong one, well designed, admirably handled and interpreted by an extraordinary company, Miss Glaum shining out like a fixed star. Never yet has the dual character of woman received adequate portrayal on the screen, but this story approaches the complete conception of her character in a girl of splendid initiative in spite of her faulty early environment. Miss Glaum is so instinctively responsive to all required of her role that she never was more delightful in this kind of part.

Effective subtleties add to the interest, while a lavish Ince production creates a pictorial appeal, enhanced by the clever work of the star. Charles Gunn and Jack Richardson as the villain, Keely. It is the type of feature that thrills the average spectator and in this and these proves a good drawing card for the exhibitor.

ALHAMBRA—WILLIAM FARNUM. "American Methods," in which William Farnum as a Frenchman, is founded on George O'Brien's "Ironmaster." William Farnum as William Armstrong is an American of French descent, and is a successful business man. He is left an orphan at the age of an iron mine in France and, with his sister, sets sail for the French village and takes charge of the business. In the French town live a marquis, his daughter and son. Armstrong falls in love with the beautiful daughter of the marquis, but she tells him she is betrothed to her cousin. Later the cousin, learning that the girl has lost her fortune, jilts her and marries another. She then accepts Armstrong, but confesses that she does not love him. Shortly after his marriage the cousin finds that he is still in love with Armstrong's wife. He inveigles her into a compromising position and is soundly thrashed for his conduct by the American. The young Frenchman attempts to shoot Armstrong, and in the struggle he is fatally wounded. "American Methods" will be at the Alhambra today, Thursday and Friday. No advance in prices, 10c, 15c, 25c.—Adv.

DOOR Y. GIRLS LOST IN YEAR

Searching Inquiry Started as Result of Murder of Miss Ruth Cruger.

New York, June 26.—More than 800 girls between the ages of ten and 20 years have disappeared from their homes here since January 1, it transpired today, coincident with an announcement by police commissioner Arthur Woods that he had ordered a searching inquiry into police conditions as a result of the "ripper" murder of Ruth Cruger, the high school graduate whose body was found buried in a cellar under a bicycle shop belonging to Alfredo Cocchi several days ago.

In this connection, importance is attached to the statement made by Miss Consuelo La Rue that she had jumped from a window of her apartment yesterday to escape being killed by two men who attacked her because she had given information which resulted in Miss Cruger's body being found.

Whether Miss La Rue had any definite connection with the Cruger case has not been finally settled today. She is said, however, to be in possession of much valuable information regarding the white slave traffic and it is reported she is prepared to make revelations almost as startling as those in the Cruger case.
